LCCB Seeking Public's Input with Online Survey

Montrose— The Lee County Conservation Board is beginning the process to create a strategic plan to guide the organization. Over the next month, the LCCB Board and staff will be working together to develop goals and objectives for the next five years.

In order to create an inclusive plan, the Conservation Board is requesting input from Lee County residents and users of LCCB parks, lands and programs.

Individuals can find a link to the survey online on the LCCB's Facebook page or at leecounty.org. The survey can also be found by following this link:
